ENJO Consultants (Pty) Ltd is further registered, and approved with other professional bodies as well. These registrations guarantee that ENJO Consultants (Pty) Ltd provide assurance of quality and may also have further benefits for learners:

- ENJO Consultants (Pty) Ltd has committed itself to ethical business practices through Unashamedly Ethical.

Skills Development and Training

Benefits to Employer and Individuals

Skills development and training has benefits for the employer, the employee and those wishing to secure employment or wishing to work independently. We will firstly focus on the general benefits of skills development for the employer in general and then look at the benefits for individuals.

Why should employers become involved in skills development and training?

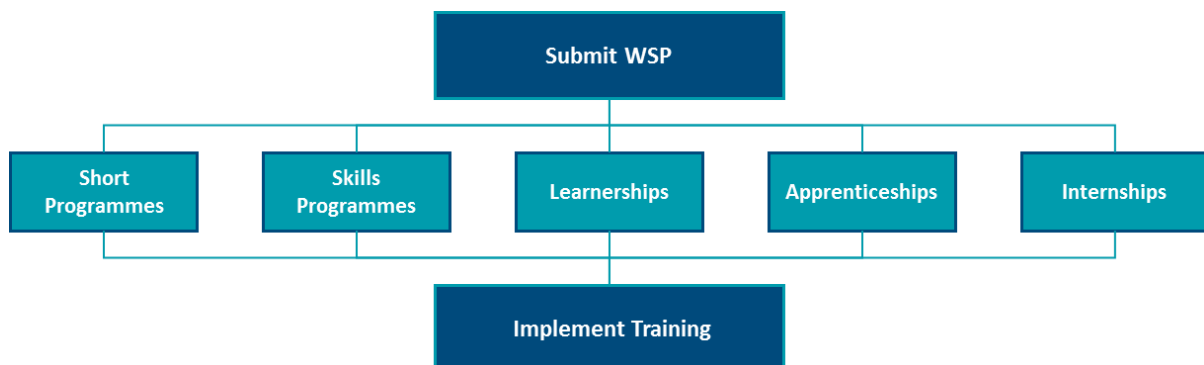

The majority of employers are compelled by Legislation to get involved in skills development. They must:

- Pay skills levies.
- Participate in skills development and training.
- Comply to B-BBEE requirements.

The Workplace Skills Plan

Skills Development Levies, Skills Development and Training and B-BBEE go hand in hand. It is therefore important for employers to understand this, as this would enable them to benefit from investing in skills development and training. Employers who have employees must:

- Pay 1% of their payroll to SARS towards the Skills Development Levies fund.
- Appoint a SDF (Skills Development Facilitator).
- Submit a WSP (workplace skills development plan).
- Implement skills training and development through skills programmes, learnerships, internships and pivotal training for both employees and the unemployed.
- Submit an ATR (annual training report).

To ensure that the employer can improve his B-BBEE scorecard, the following applies:

- Training is aimed at black people and not only black employees, in other words unemployed black people should also be included in the WSP.
- Bonus points can be earned for absorbing unemployed black learners into the workforce.

The pre-requisites for the points being awarded are:

- Workplace Skills Plan (WSP) approved by SETA.
- Annual Training Plan (ATP) approved by SETA.
- Implementation of priority skills programme generally, but specifically for black people.
- PIVOTAL report approved by SETA.

The Different Training Programmes

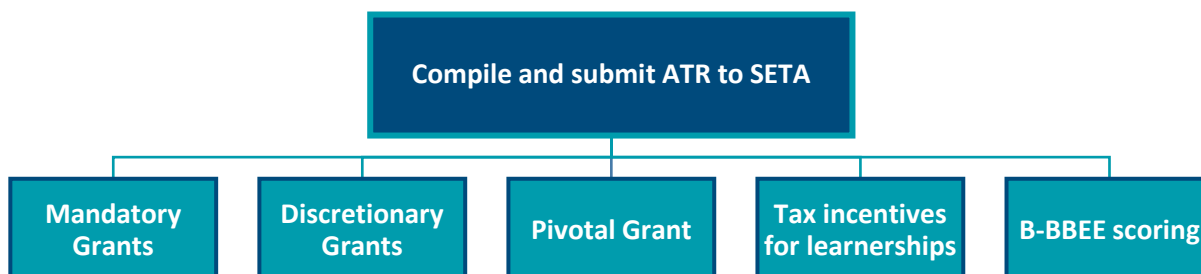

The different training programmes that could be included in training could be:

- Short programmes.
- Skills programmes.
- Learnerships.
- Apprenticeships, and.
- Internships.

Short Programmes	Are non-credit bearing programmes that can be based on work related skills and/or knowledge. (Non-accredited training – attendance certificate issued)
Skills Programmes	Are credit-bearing programmes that are based on registered unit standards or clusters of unit standards that are registered on the NQF.
Learner ships/ Apprenticeships	Are instructional and work-based learning programmes that require a formal contract. It involves institutional instruction together with structured supervised experiential learning in the workplace. The learning in the workplace could involve coaches, mentors and assessors.
Internships	Mixed mode delivery with institutional instruction as well as supervised learning in an appropriate workplace or simulated work environment. Learners who have completed their formal studies at further and higher institutions of learning could also do an internship to gain experiential knowledge in the workplace.

Skills Development and Training and the Annual Training Report

Training should be conducted as planned in the WSP as submitted to the SETA. The employer then has access to the following grants and tax incentives.

Overall benefits to the Employer

Upon Submission of WSP, Implementation of Training and Submission of ATR	B-BBEE Scorecard: 20 Points Priority Element – Skills Development
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Access to compulsory grants for submission of the WSP. • Access to discretionary grants for the implementation of the WSP. • Tax incentives are applicable at the registration of learners for learnerships and also for the completion of learnerships. • PIVOTAL grants for offering qualified learners the opportunity to gain experience in the workplace. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • 8 points if 6% of skills development expenditure is spent on black people. • 4 points if 0.3% of Skills development expenditure is spent on black employees with disabilities. • 4 points if the number of black employees involved in learnerships/ apprenticeships and internships are 2.5% of the total number of employees. • 4 points if the number of unemployed black people in learnerships, apprenticeships and internships should constitute 2.5% of the total number of employees. • Bonus points by absorbing 100% of the black people into the industry at the end of the learnership programme.

Further benefits include:

- Better skilled workforce.
- Improved productivity.
- Affordable skills development options.
- Customised skills training.
- Skills development advice and support.
- The ability of immediate implementation of newly acquired skills and knowledge in the workplace.

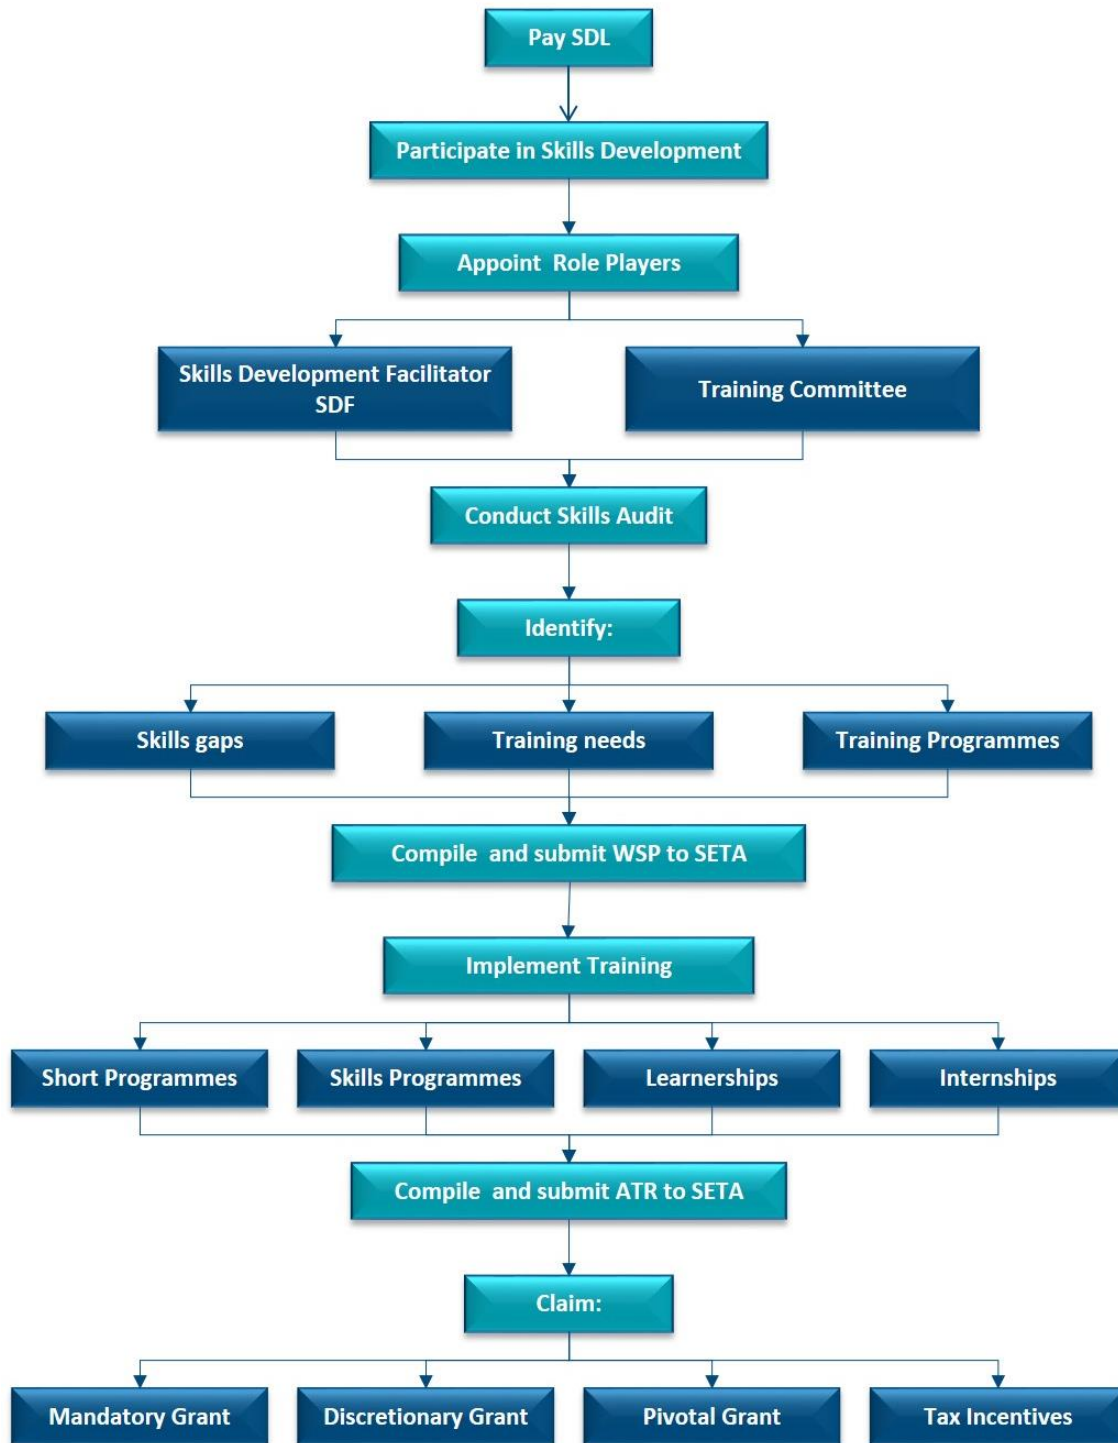

How Can an Employer Get Involved in Skills Development?

Levy-paying employers are encouraged to take skills development within the company seriously to benefit fully from promoting a learning culture. The following steps are proposed:

- Register for and pay Skills Development Levy to SARS.
- To plan skills development and submit a Workplace Skills Plan (WSP), the employer needs to employ:
 - A person that will take on the role as the Skills Development Facilitator (SDF). The SDF can be an employee of the company or it can be outsourced to a registered SDF with the relevant SETA/ETQA. This individual will head the skills audit, compile the WSP, implement the training and compile the Annual Training Report (ATR).
 - A Training Committee consisting of various role players within the company. Their role will be advisory and supporting to the SDF.
- Conduct a skills audit across all employees within the company. The objective of the skills audit is to identify:
 - Current skills of all employees.
 - Skills gaps where actual performance does not match expected performance.
 - Training needs where there are skills gaps.
 - Training programmes and training providers that could address the training needs.
- Compile a Workplace Skills Plan (WSP) keeping in mind B-BBEE targets as well as critical and scarce skills.
- Submit the WSP to the relevant SETA for approval.
- Implement training as planned using skills programmes, short programmes, learnerships and internships.
- Training can be in-house or accredited training providers that have been identified in the WSP can be used.
- At the end of the financial year the SDF compiles the ATR and submits it with the WSP for the next year.

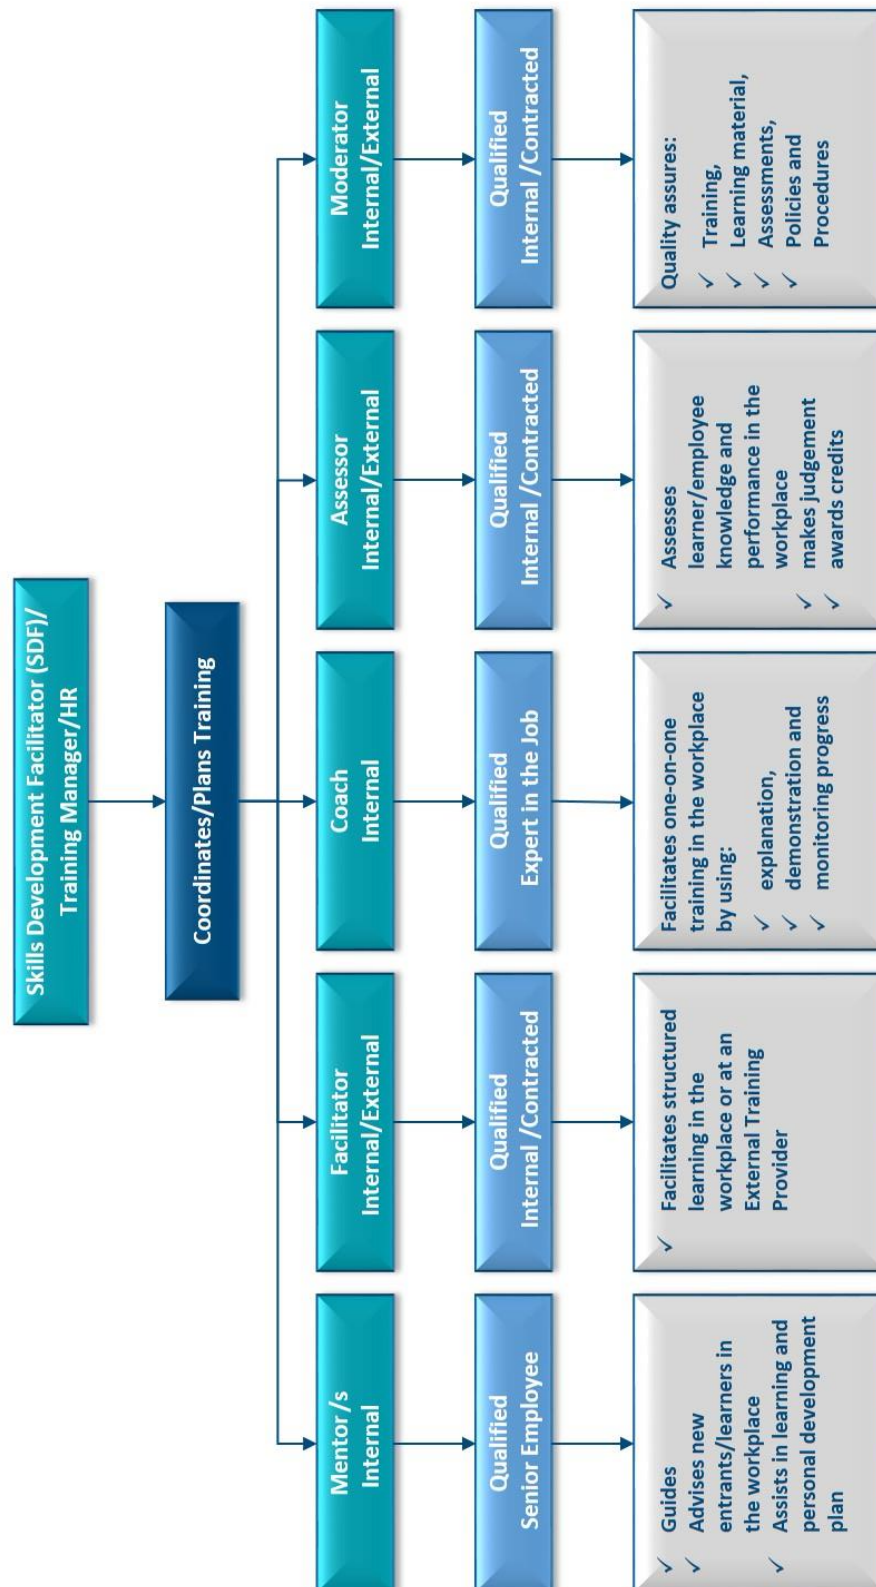

The annual Skills Development Process and the minimum staff requirements for the implementation of a holistic approach to skills development are schematically represented on the next pages.

- Accredited training options.
- Affordable training programmes.
- Guidance in portfolio building.
- Hands-on approach to training. Theory and practical are integrated and lead to applicable work-related skills.
- Hands-on approach to training.
- Theory and practical are integrated and lead to applicable work-related skills.
- Continuous support.
- Programmes that are building blocks towards a full qualification.
- Building of a career.

How does one make sense of all the new concepts?

The introduction of accredited skills development training has brought with it many concepts that are foreign for all. It is important to us that you have a clear understanding of what we mean when we talk about your future. We therefore urge you to become familiar with the new concepts within the skills development scenario.

- The objective of skills development is to provide learners with the skills and the knowledge required to perform in the workplace.
- Furthermore, skills development standards are written as learning outcomes that give all role players an indication of exactly what the learner will know and will be able to do after the completion of a learning programme.
- Assessment criteria that link to the various learning outcomes form part of the registered standards. These criteria provide guidelines on the requirements that need to be met to declare a learner competent, thus successful.

Learning Programme Components

All accredited learning programmes is made up of credits.

What is a credit?

- One (1) credit = Ten (10) notional hours.
- A notional hour is the average time it takes an average learner to master the skill and/or knowledge required. This includes time spent in the classroom, in the workplace attaining the practical skills, applying knowledge and skills and the assessment.
- Credits go towards to make up a unit standard, a skills programme and a full qualification.

What is a Unit Standard? <ul style="list-style-type: none"> It is the smallest registered unit that one can receive credit for. Unit standards form the building blocks for skills programmes and full qualifications. 	What is a Skills Programme? <ul style="list-style-type: none"> A Skills Programme is occupationally based and when completed will constitute credits towards a qualification registered on the NQF. Provisioning is undertaken by a training provider accredited by an ETQA (Skills Development Act No. 97 of 1998). A skills programme is a type of short learning programme. (Source: http://www.saqa.org.za/docs/guide/2004/s-courses.pdf) 	What is a Registered Qualification? A registered qualification: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Can be unit standard based or non-unit standard based. That is unit standard based contains Fundamental Unit Standards, Core Unit Standards and Elective Unit Standards that are combined according to prescribed requirements.

Overview

This is an entry-level qualification, and the first in a series, which leads to levels 5 and 6 Qualifications for those who want to enter the field of Education, Training and Development (ETD). Learners of this qualification will have the opportunity to build on this qualification via the certificate or diploma in ODETDP at level 5. This qualification makes it possible for practitioners to increase their employment prospects, and at the same time provide a means whereby organisations can appoint practitioners in line with proven competencies. Education, Training and Development is also a priority area within the South African context and is supported by legislation, national policies and strategies.

Given the high priority of education, training and development within the South African context, and in particular the emphasis on skills development, trainers are required in all fields of learning. Much of the contribution to skills development is through ETD practitioners who need to have essential knowledge and practical skills in ETD, as defined by this qualification.

The South African Council for Educators (SACE) does register Grade R teachers with the Qualification 58761, Further Education & Training Certificate: Early Childhood Development if the qualification is obtained from an accredited institution.

The following questions are answered on SACE's website

http://sace.org.za/Registration/jit_default_17.Frequently_Asked_Questions_\(FAQ\).html.html)

Q: Does SACE accommodate ECD educators?

A: Yes, as per the Resolution of 2004, we register educators at Grade R in both public and independent schools.

Q: What qualification should the ECD educator possess?

A: An ECD qualification at NQF level 4 from an accredited institution.

How Does One Become an ECD Practitioner / Grade R Teacher / ECD Manager?

You need to:

- Enrol for the SAQA Qualification 58761: Further Education & Training Certificate: Early Childhood Development, NQF Level 04.
- Complete the different skills programmes making up the full qualification.
- Compile and submit portfolios of evidence for assessment.

How is this Training Programme Completed and What Is the Duration?

- Training can be provided to individuals or to corporates.
- Learners can enrol per module or for the full qualification.
- Learners who may have completed some of the modules previously are also welcome to complete outstanding modules for this qualification.
- This qualification is to be completed over one year to eighteen months. The pace that the learner works at also impacts the duration and may be completed sooner.

For Individuals:

- Individuals can complete this qualification through distance learning.
- Support is available to learners via Skype, email, phone or setting up an appointment to meet with one of our facilitators for guidance.
- Learners will be required to work through the learner guide and portfolio of evidence.
- The learner will be required to submit the portfolio of evidence for assessment. The portfolio of evidence contains proof of your ability to apply the newly acquired knowledge and skills in the workplace. The questions in the Portfolio of Evidence are all covered in the learner guide.

Group Bookings, Educational/Institutional or Corporate Bookings:

Training classes can be arranged for groups or corporates and can be tailored to the client's needs. ENJO Consultants (Pty) Ltd are willing to work alongside the client to meet the client's needs for this training within the requirements of the training programme. Training classes can take place either at the client site or at ENJO Consultants.

Learning Material and Assessment

The learning material consists of a learner guide and a portfolio of evidence for completion by the learner. The learner will keep the learner guide and the completed portfolio of evidence which must be returned to ENJO Consultants (Pty) Ltd for assessment.

Portfolios for each module will be assessed and the results uploaded to ETDP SETA as the learner hands in the portfolio for assessment. This means that the learner does not need to wait to complete the full qualification before assessment and certification takes place. A certificate and a statement of results will be issued per module to competent learners as the portfolios are assessed and verified.

What does the ENJO Consultants (Pty) Ltd ECD Training Programme Entail?

The ECD qualification, ID 58761, NQF level 4 consists of seven (7) modules. The unit standards have been grouped together into modules/skills programmes that focus on the different areas within the qualification.
